

Gianpaolo Reinares

Working with Gp was really cool. He's fast, efficient and smart as all get out, he takes initiative a lot and wants to make it as easy as possible for me. I really appreciate it when people take initiative without being asked because normally I'm always the one to step up when everyone starts looking around and the awkward silence comes. Our work paces kept rebounding off of each other and it helped us be more cohesive and work faster and more smoothly. If anything only thing I'd say he could improve on is not going so fast, luckily I know how to keep up but for someone else I can see it becoming overwhelming to say the least, because sometimes when he talks fast and is moving at the same time and doing something else as well while asking you a question can tend to throw someone off. But that's mainly nitpicking. It wasn't a problem for me, so I give him the 100% team player stamp of approval.